Socio-Cultural and Political Perspectives in Indo-Anglian Fiction

Date - 7th August, 2021

In Collaboration With

About the Seminar

Indo-Anglian fiction has gained momentum and hence has been drawing much attention world over all these years. It has very effective form of literature depicting the society in its true nature. Larger volumes of literary works involving various socio-cultural and political themes have been generated by the Indo-Anglian writers quite often. Socio-cultural and political perspectives which become the very core and integral part of Indo-Anglian fiction writings produce very distinctive aspect of literature representing almost every dimension of life such as caste, class, gender, culture, values, morals, beliefs, customs, tradition, language, religion, art, music, etc. Indo-Anglian fiction writing in particular gives an incisive understanding into the intricacies of the above aspects in Indian society as reflected in the works of Indo-Anglian writers.

The early Indo-Anglian fiction writings have brought into limelight certain aspects of the reality such as imperialism, casteism, religious fundamentalism, cultural hegemony, authoritarian political leadership and dominance of a particular political ideology which influenced the society for long time, starting with pre-independent era. Now much of Indo-Anglian literature speaks of larger volume of changes that the society is going through over last many years. The change from autocracy to democracy, from totalitarianism to liberalism, from socialism to individualism, from single dominant culture to multiculturalism and from spiritualism to materialism, in general, representing a phenomenal shift from tradition to modernity in Indian society, has been conspicuously visible. The whole gamut of Indo-Anglian literature in a way has exposed the hypocrisies of religion, politics and dominant culture perpetuating the caste based cultural hegemony in society.

Changing Dynamics of India's Foreign Policy

Date: 28th September, 2021

About Webinar Theme

Continuity and change are always reflected in the foreign policy of the nations and Indian foreign policy is no exception to it. Recently a few discernible dimensions have emerged in Indian foreign policy, such as- economic and technical developments having precedence now and both domestic and foreign policy have been oriented to achieve these aims. The trends like strengthening defence capability and using it as deterrence vis- a- vis hostile neighbours, realising the significance of soft power and public diplomacy including digital diplomacy and nation branding have been noticed. Relations with South East Asian nations have been made more vibrant by replacing the Look East policy with the Act East policy.

India has strongly dealt with Chinese incursions and Pakistan's misadventures on borders. Taking a dissenting note on the Trade Facilitation Agreement (TFA) in the WTO also shows the strong will to protect the national interest. Evacuation and assistance to Indians living in conflict zone of Iraq, Libya, Ukraine and now in Afghanistan were no less a gigantic diplomatic endeavour. Prime Minister's visits to foreign countries were the attempts to connect with the India Diaspora there. India put forth a constructive approach at the forums of BRICS, SAARC and ASEAN.

In order to understand the changing dynamics of Indian foreign policy our institution alongwith Annasaheb Gundewar College, Nagpur, Principal Arunrao Kalode College, Nagpur and Govindrao Warjurkar Arts and Commerce College, Nagbhid is organizing One Day Virtual National Seminar on Changing Dynamics of India's Foreign Policy.
